

[EN]

Deadwood

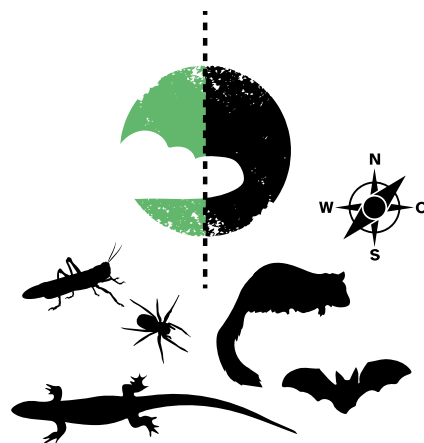

Building instructions

Use branches from pruning in the garden to build the deadwood pile, prefer native coniferous, deciduous and fruit tree wood.

It is important to have a good mix of branch and trunk sizes, as some animals prefer thicker branches as a habitat.

Standing tree trunks and woodpiles also serve as habitats for many animal species.

Location: Depending on the exposition to sunlight and the situation, different animals and plants settle.

